Download Digital Film Tools Film Stocks 3.0.1.3 [Win].The present invention relates to a rack for supporting a hollow article, for example a wine bottle. Plastic material comprises a material that can be cut in a production process of different articles. A rack supporting a glass is generally manufactured by cutting a sheet of plastic material. Different racks are known for different types of articles, for example, different racks for ceramic articles, glass articles, food articles, beverage articles, lamp articles, candle articles, flower vase articles, and the like. As an example, a rack for a beverage container is disclosed in U.S. Pat. No. 5,003,676. The beverage rack comprises a central part having elongate slots for receiving the neck of the beverage container. The central part is formed by a first part and a second part having a pair of side legs. The first part is formed by a single first side piece having an external thread and a frusto-conical end portion. The second part is formed by a single second side piece having a mating frusto-conical end portion. The second part is adapted to be inserted into the first part to form a connection between the first and second parts. The first and second side pieces form a plurality of elongate slots for receiving the neck of the beverage container. The beverage rack is attached to the beverage container by means of a threaded cap connecting the first and second parts. The threaded cap engages with the external thread of the first part and the frusto-conical end portion of the second part. The frusto-conical end portion of the second part engages into the frusto-conical end portion of the first part for fixing the central part to the beverage container. The rack disclosed in U.S. Pat. No. 5,003,676 has a large number of separate parts. The above-described beverage rack further comprises a frusto-conical end portion of the second part which is adapted to be inserted into the frusto-conical end portion of the first part. After inserting the frusto-conical
